My very dearest:

In looking over and weeding the Dumbarton Oaks folder last night I found I had a copy of these Catalog House Notes. So, as you may, in all likelihood want to put them back in your files, here they are.

It does tear one's heartstrings to separate after these four lovely "together" months ...

Don't forget that one of the things that Dumbarton Oaks and its people will most value will be the snapshots of you and Robert. No description of how much better he looks will be as convincing as a likeness - so do, please, my dearest, remember to do this chore for those who love you so deeply.

The supplementary Casa Dorinda notes will follow as soon as our good Miss Verga can type them out and post them.

Yours as ever -

Trix
