Mildred dearest:

Unfortunately in this case it does not look as though silence on your part meant consent and that we were likely to meet before your summer begins. So this is just a wave of the hand wishing you and Robert all that rest and change can give you wherever you may be.

If only you could see the azaleas here. They have been more beautiful than ever before - thanks to incessant rain and cool weather. We mortals don't like the dampness as much as the plants do, but after all what does that matter!

Yours with fondest love,

B. F.
