Casa Dorinda,
Santa Barbara, Calif.

Dearest Garden Twin:

It is magnificent news that Trusty Thacher is coming to Santa Barbara a week from Thursday, and as he gayly says in his wire to me that he hopes to spend a week, I am writing him Air Mail today, telling him that unless I hear from him or you to the contrary, I shall keep Tuesday, April 8th for Dumbartoning with you three at Casa Dorinda.

A portentous roll of the Director's House plans and elevations, including the garage, and the office are going to you today. When you have done with the whole lot of them, they might well be returned to Mr. William Hertrich, Curator, Huntington Botanical Gardens, San Marino, Calif., as they will be of use to him as record plans for the whole group.

You will not want to be bothered eternally long with them, and as Hertrich will not need them perhaps for months to come, you may keep them as long as you please, and use Hertrich as a convenient waste basket!

How nice to think that in ten days, we shall be together again and at work on D.O.

Your ever fond,

Trix
