

BEATRIX FARRAND
LANDSCAPE GARDENER
REEF POINT
BAR HARBOR, MAINE

Feb. 25, 1946

Dear Miss Sweeney:

You will probably think that I am not trying to get those books for you, but I am. I have succeeded in finding Hitchcock's Manual of the Grasses of the U.S.A. and am ordering it sent directly to you from Fiedler in New York. Have you any idea where the others could be found? I agree with you that if you had the money in hand you might pick them up a great deal quicker than I can by just sending out "feelers".

We are having a tough old winter here in Maine. Snow, snow and more snow. A bad blizzard last night covered everything with from 10-12 inches of snow - this on top of a similar one last Wednesday. It takes my husband nearly all his time keeping our long drive ploughed! There has been a lot of cold weather too, but I don't really mind it so long as the coal hangs on.

Let me know if you have any suggestions as to where I can find the other list of books which Mrs. Farrand tells me you want. (I think you gave her the list last last summer).

Yours sincerely,

Isabelle M. Stover

Secretary