

August 24, 1944

How like you, Trix dear, to send the telegram condoling with Robert. He sends you his love and thanks, and says being shelved for a few days has great advantages as he is catching up on a variety of reading and being able to finish long since begun books.

The area has not spread and with the new strapping the doctor thinks that resting his leg will make him fit by next week. If a clot forms we shall, of course, not like it. Do you know this new bandage which is a combination of Ace with adhesive called Elastoplast and an invaluable aid in time of trouble.

Dearest love to Maxtrix, with such a heartfelt of emotion over France.

(Dictated but not signed by Mrs. Bliss)

Mrs. Max Farrand
Reef Point
Bar Harbor, Maine