

July 30th, 1947

Dear Miss Stoyer:

Mrs. Bliss has asked me to thank you for your two notes of July 25th and 28th which arrived today. She is very much distressed to hear that Mrs. Farrand is suffering the inconveniences of lumbago and that she has over-done a bit, and she sends her best love to Mrs. Farrand and the hope that the attack will of short duration, and that she will soon be herself again.

Mrs. Bliss is not "valid" herself at the moment, having had a violent reaction to the cholera inoculation that was required before her European trip, so has requested my help in answering some of her correspondence.

Sincerely yours,

Secretary
