

Smithsonian
Anacostia Community Museum

Lecture - The Power of Place: Preserving the Legacies of African American Settlements

Wednesday, September 20, 2017 from 6:00 to 7:30 PM

Smithsonian Anacostia Community Museum | Program Room

The museum is partnering with the Mellon Initiative in Urban Landscape Studies at Dumbarton Oaks. Join ACM curator Alcione Amos and landscape architect Everett L. Fly (2014 National Humanities Medalist) for a discussion about the importance and methods of preserving crucial places and stories of African American settlements. The evening's discussion will position Ms. Amos' research on the historic Barry Farm within a broader array of preservation efforts.

RSVP: Eventbrite, ACMrsvp@si.edu or (202)633-4867