Botanical Gardens and the Urban Future

Garden and Landscape Studies
Dumbarton Oaks Research Library and Collection
Annual Colloquium
November 2, 2018
The Oak Room, Fellowship House

9:00 – 9:20 am Registration and Coffee in The Oak Room, Fellowship House

9:20 am Introductory remarks by Anatole Tchikine, Curator of Rare Books, Garden & Landscape Studies

10:10 – 10:50 am Emma Spary, “Prospective Gardens in the Early French Empire, 1670-1730”

10:50 – 11:10 am Coffee

11:50 – 12:30 pm Adriaan Geuze, “Contemporary Paradises”

12:30 – 2:15 pm Lunch

2:55 – 3:35 pm Finola O’Kane, “The Public Botanic Garden in the budding British Empire: The Ideal Subversive Suburban Space?”

3:35 – 3:50 pm Coffee

4:30 – 5:10 pm Sheila Brady, “Designing Ecosystems at the New York Botanic Garden”

5:10 – 5:45 pm Discussion, moderated by John Beardsley, Program Director, Garden & Landscape Studies

5:45 – 6:30 pm Prosecco

Programs in Urban Landscape Studies at Dumbarton Oaks are supported by a grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation through their initiative in Architecture, Urbanism, and the Humanities